About the Artist

Melanie Meyer is a South African artist working intuitively across painting, sculpture, photography, and image-making. Her practice is grounded in presence, movement, and a quiet trust in what wants to emerge.

She understands art as a living, collaborative dialogue – with the self, with others, and with the unknown – where process is as essential as form.

Melanie lives and works in Cape Town, South Africa. Alongside her evolving body of original work, she creates commissioned pieces and shares selected works through online platforms and limited print editions. She also facilitates process-art workshops and hosts creative retreats, welcoming children, adults, and couples into creative inquiry and embodied art making.
